Alex. H. Washburn'Exhibit A'
on Dangerous
Clothing

On my desk is a sports shirt with a big hole burned through its front. I call it 'Exhibit A' in dangerous clothing.

I have witnesses to what happened. Pod Rogers, Star circulation manager, his son Bradford, and I were preparing to leave Hope for a night dinner in Texarkana, with Pod driving. I lit a pipe and settled back to enjoy the trip.

A hot coal from the pipe dropped on my shirt—and it burst into flames. Pod and I jointly beat out the fire. I wasn't burned but the shirt was a total loss, and we headed back to my house for a fresh outfit.

I've burned holes in shirts and slacks as any pipe-smoker will—but never before has an article of clothing blazed up from merely a hot coal.

I examined the shirt's label: "Super Spun, 65 per cent Dacron Polyester, 35 per cent Cotton, Maas Brothers, Florida." I bought that shirt in Sarasota, Fla., in 1970—Florida's largest department store chain having a big store there.

Personally I don't think much of the synthetic fabrics except nylon. I always shop for woolen or cotton clothes but sometimes they aren't available.

I am researching the federal agencies to find the proper one to send this damaged shirt to for investigation as to what went wrong in the chemical consist of the fabric. Maas Brothers aren't responsible—but the chemist behind the fabric-maker is.

Other dacron polyester clothing doesn't burst into flame from a hot coal. But this particular shirt did. I'm going to find out why, in the name of public safety.

Budgeting system
discussed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers was scheduled to discuss the state's budgeting system today before the Arkansas Legislative Council.

The governor was expected to talk about his proposal to allow intradepartment shifts of money and personnel unneeded in one agency to another agency.

Bumpers has said that allowing the procedure would give the state more budgeting flexibility.

Also on the council's agenda was a proposal by Sen. Robert Harvey of Swifton for a study of the feasibility and advisability of the state taking over the ownership and operation of the Southland Park greyhound race track at West Memphis.

The council's Education Committee met Thursday and voted to consider further a proposal to allow school districts to operate classes the year-around if they desired.

The committee instructed the council staff to draft a bill for study that would authorize the year-around operations.

There has been talk that some school districts, because of overcrowding, would have to go to a system where the schools are open the year-around and students attend on staggered nine-month terms.

Naked came
I, sayeth
tax men!

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) —

Three state tax agents were sent naked into the street and another was held hostage for eight hours by a black businessman who demanded—and got—a meeting with Gov. Winfield Dunn over a $167 tax dispute.

The businessman, identified by police as LaSaunders Hudson, 29, met with Dunn over Negro problems for an hour Thursday at a downtown hotel. He claimed he didn't owe the $167 in back sales taxes because of what he called Tennessee's wilful refusal "to deal with the needs of the black citizens of the state."

After the meeting, police took Hudson, co-owner of a dry cleaning firm, into custody without charge. He was held overnight in the Memphis jail pending a police meeting today with the district attorney. Police said Hudson's lawyer requested that he not be questioned until today.

Don Duncan, in his early 30s, was held hostage at pistol point until Dunn flew to Memphis from the state capital in Nashville. Duncan was treated at a hospital for hands swollen from being bound and was released.

The incident began when the four agents went to Hudson's cleaning firm Thursday morning to collect back sales taxes. They returned shortly before noon after they learned the check Hudson gave them would not clear the bank.

At this point, Hudson pulled a gun on the four agents and ordered three of them to remove their clothes and walk into the street, according to Vince Tumminello, one of the agents released. "He said he would kill him (Duncan) if we did not strip to the skin," Tumminello said.

The state pageant will be held in Pine Bluff on July 1.

Hospital receives emergency supplies

A spokesman for the Branch General Hospital announced this week that through negotiations with the federal government the hospital has received emergency medical supplies and equipment sufficient to last a 50-bed hospital 30 days.

The unit is called a HDRI unit which means "Hospital Reserve Disaster Inventory."

The HDRI unit is furnished free of charge and the hospital's only responsibility is to store the supplies and rotate limited shelf-life items to insure fresh supplies at all times.

Under the agreement with the federal government, the HDRI supplies used to provide care under disaster conditions are resupplied to the participating hospital.

The HDRI unit contains supplies which the hospital will use in its daily operations. At the same time, it will continue its normal rate of procurement.

There is enough supplies at all times to allow provision for disaster care without relying on outside sources. The plan helps the hospital assure the community of adequate disaster care and also achieves an automatic rotation of limited shelf-life items.

The state was divided into five regions with the Branch General Hospital being chosen for the southwest part of the state. Little Rock was chosen for the central part; Walnut Ridge, the eastern; Fayetteville, the western; and Blytheville for the northeastern part. Other hospitals may be added at a later date.

A spokesman for the hospital commented, "I think the community will rest easier knowing that a pre-packaged plan is available for ready use in the event of a disaster."

'Mystery youth' is identified

CHICAGO (AP) — Kim Kadas, found 11 days ago swimming off Key West, Fla., is back home in East Chicago, Ind., today, the mystery of his identity solved.

But for the family, who arrived with their 16-year-old son this week at O'Hare International Airport, there remains the matter of figuring out how Kim:

—Managed to get to Florida after disappearing from his home April 11.

—Survived what Florida police estimate as between 11 and 12 hours in the waters off Key West.

—Developed amnesia that wouldn't allow him to remember who he was, and set scores of parents of missing sons to calling him in the hope that he might be theirs.

Kadas' identity was confirmed when Mr. and Mrs. William Kadas flew Wednesday to Key West. Dorothy Kadas said her son stared at her for a short time when they met in the Key West police station, then recognized her.

Kim says his first recollection was finding himself in the ocean about four miles offshore. He said he spotted a beacon and swam for it.

Key West police Sgt. Earl L. McCain said Kadas was shriveled from exposure to water when he arrived at the highway patrol office June 4. He was wearing swimming trunks, and had a knife, compass and can opener.

Action invites veto, debate

Record-breaking budget for two agencies passedBy WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed a budget-breaking $28.6-billion appropriations bill for two major departments, perhaps inviting a presidential veto and stirring an election-year debate.

By a vote of 277 to 60 Thursday night, the House approved $1.27 billion more than President Nixon had requested for the departments of Labor, and Health, Education and Welfare.

The measure sent to the Senate carries funds for the fiscal year starting July 1, most of it for health and education programs.

The bill is similar to two previous money measures vetoed by the President because the amounts far exceeded his preferences.

Republican leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, supporting a last-ditch losing drive to cut out the increases, warned that the bill faced a veto if the boosts were retained.

The House ignored the warning and voted down the slash amendment, 209 to 137.

Before the final vote, Democratic leader Hale Boggs of Louisiana told the House that, if the President "wants to veto the bill, that's his privilege. We'll bring it back and try to override."

Some Democrats said they doubt that the President would find it politically feasible to reject a bill financing popular health, education and welfare programs while, at the same time, readying a request for more money for the Vietnam war. If he did so, the Democrats would have a certain campaign issue.

The $1.27 billion added to the bill included $912 million recommended by the Appropriations Committee for various programs and $364 million tacked on by a floor amendment for elementary and secondary school programs.

Also included were committee additions of $347.7 million for the National Institutes of Health and $263.6 million for health services and mental health programs.

Airline strike slated Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Air Line Pilots Association ordered its members today to take part in a worldwide 24-hour suspension of air service Monday.

John J. O'Donnell, ALPA president, said the air service shutdown was ordered because of failure of the United Nations to take effective action regarding enforcement of international convictions against hijackers and extortionists.

He told a news conference the 24-hour suspension ordered by the International Federation of Air Line Associations and is to take effect at 2 a.m. EDT June 19.

"Under law, air line pilots are charged with the responsibility for the lives of the passengers entrusted to them," O'Donnell said.

"When some world governments are unable or unwilling to insure that level of safety and security that we demand, and you the traveling public expect, then we can no longer sit idly by."

O'Donnell said he wanted to make especially clear that the action was not directed against U.S. airlines, but against the inability of all nations to agree on the proper course of action to stop air piracy.

He said some airlines already have indicated some measure of support.

"We call on the rest to join hands with us in this endeavor," O'Donnell said.

"We also call on our brother unions across the country and around the world to stand with us on June 19."

O'Donnell said it was truly unfortunate that the travel plans of hundreds of thousands of airline passengers must be interrupted.

"But it is inevitable that unless hijack sanctuaries are eliminated, many thousands of future passengers will continue to face the horrors of air crimes," he said.

"We must either stand up to this threat now, or be prepared to continue to be used as human pawns in whatever machinations future air criminals may have in store for us."

"The latter alternative is unthinkable."

O'Donnell said ALPA is particularly gratified by the overwhelming support it is receiving from the public.

"To those we are inconveniencing, we sincerely apologize," he said. "But, we have no alternative."

Every dog has his day; man
finds it out

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Every dog has his day and Rudolph Behr of Little Rock probably wished that his hadn't.

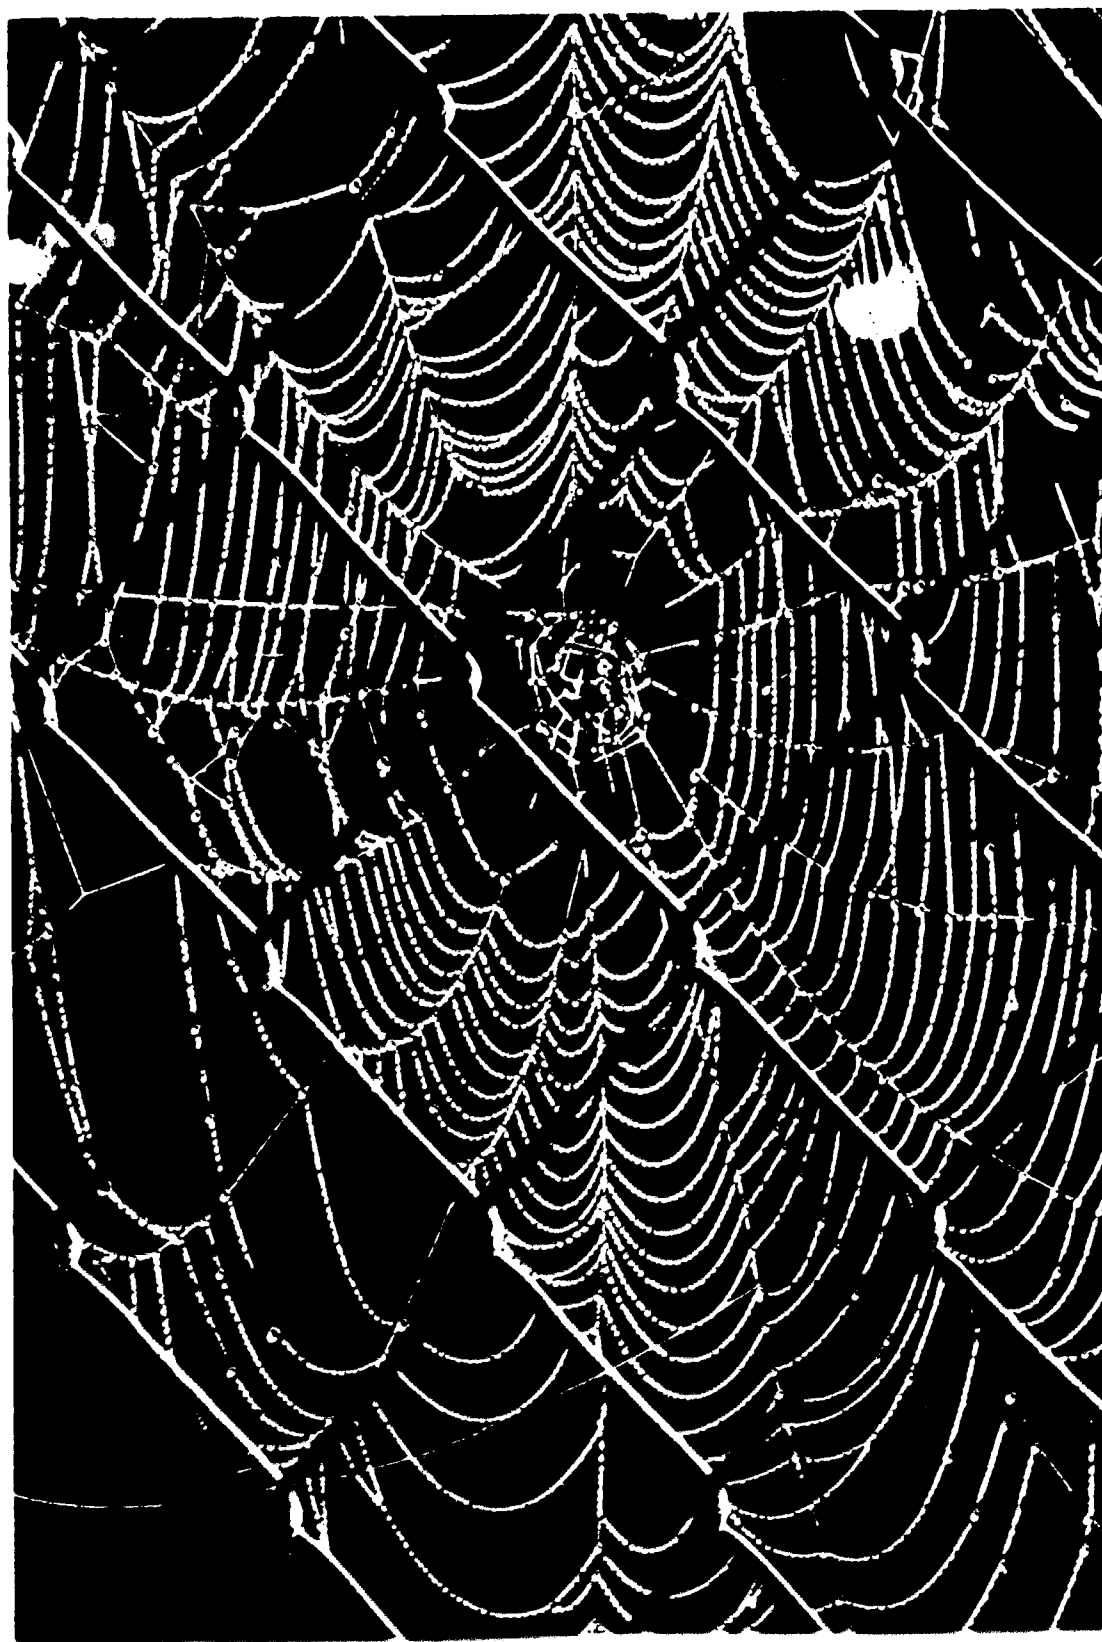

Behr was found guilty of cruelty to an animal Wednesday in Municipal Court.

Judge Jack Holt Sr. fined him $54.50 and sentenced him to 30 days in jail with the jail sentence suspended.

Holt also specified that Behr would have to pay medical and boarding costs for his dog before he could get him back.

The Pulaski County Humane Society had charged Behr in a warrant, alleging that his collie dog had been tied on a rope leash that was too tight and injured his neck.

Behr testified that the rope was not too tight.

Hobby turned into business

After viewing some of his creations, it is easy to see that leather is like putty in the hands of James Rowe of Hope. Rowe, assistant police chief here, is, in his sparetime, a saddlemaker. He started working with leather in 1953, first making a belt. Then he graduated to saddlemaking—but not without some misgivings, he said yesterday afternoon, while working in his shop just off Pritchett St.

He started working with leather as a hobby, but his hobby quickly grew into a business until "now I just can't keep up with it all."

In addition to building saddles he also repairs broken parts on saddles and harness, refurbishes old saddles, and makes chaps. Construction of police gear—Sam Browne belts, shoulder straps, holsters and handcuff cases is just another branch of his leather-working operation.

The first step in constructing a saddle is to install a seat strainer, a rectangular piece of heavy gauge tin on the underside of a "tree," a raw-hide covered pattern made of pine which he orders from a specialty house. After installing the seat strainer, Rowe cuts the leather to a specific pattern, and fits the pieces over the tree. He wets the leather, draws it tight over the form and lets it dry to shape.

Intricate carving on saddles is Rowe's specialty, and he said "I usually do all my work free-hand." He said it took roughly "three days—if I did nothing else—to complete a saddle."

Rowe's grandfather Porter was a saddlemaker, but Rowe said: "I never watched my grandfather make saddles. I guess I was born with the ability, because I've always love to work with leather."

And that love is evident in his work.

Humphrey is attempting to raise funds

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey was in New York today to meet with media executives and try to raise money for his debt-ridden campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The Minnesota senator planned no public appearances and is not actively campaigning for the June 20 New York primary, in which no Humphrey-pledged delegates are running.

Humphrey flew into town late Wednesday night after a day of private consultations with campaign staff members in Washington.

Bombing severely impairing Vietnam's conventional war

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. warplanes hammered North Vietnam with a record 350 strikes Thursday, including attacks on three MIG air bases, a naval base and an army barracks, but stayed 60 miles away from Hanoi because Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny is there.

"Almost all of the raids were in the southern part of North Vietnam, and none was very close to Hanoi," a U.S. spokesman said. "The combination of good weather and lucrative targets was the reason for the high number of strikes."

U.S. informants termed the suspension of bombing in the Hanoi-Haiphong area a show of good will toward the Soviet Union and a precautionary measure to avoid any incidents during Podgorny's meetings with North Vietnamese leaders.

In the air strikes on the MIG bases, Air Force F4 Phantom pilots reported cutting runways and taxiways at the Hai Thung, Khe Phat and Quan Lang bases.

Navy pilots flying off the carrier Midway attacked the Hai Yen naval base six miles north-east of Vinh and reported damaging one pier and destroying two supply boats.

The Badong army barracks, 20 miles northwest of Dong Hoi, also was reported damaged.

B52 bombers hit the Dong Hoi area, 45 miles north of the demilitarized zone, for the ninth successive day, keeping up a campaign to destroy war materials and installations that could support an attack on Hue, 90 miles to the southeast.

From north of Saigon, Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett reported from Highway 13 that the attempt to clear the road to An Loc and lift the 71-day-old siege of the city was delayed Thursday by a 100-man North Vietnamese attack on a government force clearing the road.

The attack was made about four miles south of An Loc, and American advisers said they didn't think there were that many North Vietnamese left in the area.

South Vietnamese casualties were reported light, but two armored personnel carriers were destroyed before the North Vietnamese pulled back after two hours of fighting, Arnett said. Their losses were not known.

On the northern front, 57 North Vietnamese were reported killed in a series of clashes on the western flanks of Hue. Another 46 died in a dawn-to-dusk battle in Binh Dinh Province, on the central coast, near the district town of An Nhon, the South Vietnamese command said.

South Vietnamese losses in the two fights were 21 killed and eight wounded, the command said.

Area health advisory group met Wednesday

The Health Advisory Council of the Southwest Arkansas Planning and Development District, Inc., which includes Hempstead County, met in Texarkana on Wednesday, June 14.

J. Darol Bell of Ashdown, Chairman of the Council, announced that the council had revised and established the health planning priorities for the district and Emergency Medical Services was moved into the number one priority bracket followed by health manpower, health education, environmental health, and developmental disabilities.

The Emergency Medical Services arewide plan will be revised and a more detailed plan for each county will be compiled, it was announced. A resolution regarding Emergency Medical Services was also passed by the council which states that the program should provide training, licensing, and related requirements for ambulance and rescue vehicle operators, attendants, drivers and dispatchers.

Bell further stated that in view of the fact that health manpower was second on the priority list, a committee was appointed to study the possibility of licensing for paramedical personnel. Members of this committee are: A. L. McElmurry, chairman; Dr. Betty Lowe of Texarkana; Dan Clark, administrator of Howard County Memorial Hospital, Nashville; and Burl L. Eastep Jr., director of Comprehensive Health Planning for the district.

New members of the council were Dr. Betty Lowe, pediatrician of Texarkana, A. L. McElmurry, administrator of Wadley Hospital in Texarkana, Tex; Fred Smith, associate administrator of Warner Brown Hospital, El Dorado; F. B. Buffington, supervising principal and parent coordinator of the Magnolia Public School System, Magnolia; a member of the Board of Directors of the Southwest Arkansas Planning and Development District; and Jim Burgess, Magnolia, who is with the Industrial Research and Extension Center, University of Arkansas.

In painting the primary colors are red, yellow and blue. Any color can be made by blending these three.

STOCKHOLM (AP) — China refused today to endorse a clause in the proposed environment policy declaration calling for a ban on nuclear weapons and their destruction.

In an obvious slap at the use by the United States of defoliants in Vietnam, the Chinese demanded that the clause also refer to biological and chemical weapons "and other means of mass destruction."

DEAR HELEN: No offense, but I must challenge some of your answers in the column of "Twenty-Five Questions on 'Are You Living or Just Existing?'"

You said if you answered more than six of these "Yes," you were headed for dullness. However, on four I think you missed the boat:

No. 11: "Would you take a spur of the moment, unplanned trip and enjoy it?" A dull person would say "No!"

No. 16: "Do your children drive you up the wall?" What honest young Mom could avoid answering "Yes" to this one—which doesn't mean she's bored?

No. 21: "Would you pull off the road to enjoy a sunset, or do you think of dusk as just another driving hazard?" Mr. Dull would say "No" to the first, "Yes" to the second.

No. 24: "Would you explore an unknown trail just to see where it leads?" Again, the "stick in the mud's" answer would be "No!"—Whether it's a mountain path or the "trail of life."

Please answer "Yes" or "No," Helen. Did you goof?—FAITHFUL READER DEAR FAITHFUL:

YES, I goofed—on Numbers 11, 21 and 24...and I hope most of my readers are like my husband who understands what I MEANT to say, rather than what I said. You see, I'm a little new at this questionnaire game, and I didn't include all my negatives. These three questions should begin, "Would you REFUSE to..."

A small argument on No. 16: Remember, F.R., I gave you a "three-fourths of the time" clause. Most children drive their parents up the wall occasionally, but if it's "constantly," then boredom may have something to do with it.—H. DEAR HELEN:

Every year on Mother's Day and Father's Day, our grown children come home and my wife ends up cooking a big dinner—or else I suggest we eat out, and I end up paying for the whole schmeer.

Am I wrong to take a jaundiced look at boxes of stationery and pairs of socks when those gifts cost us a lot of work and money?—NO DAY OF REST DEAR NDOR:

No! I hope your children take an educated look at your letter!—H. DEAR HELEN:

For 17 years I was married to a wonderful man who gave our five children and me many happy memories. He was killed two years ago in a wreck.

My best girlfriend was married to my husband's cousin, but five years ago she died of cancer, leaving three small children whose father is raising them well. The four of us and our families were always together, so much so that people used to say there were eight children with two mothers and two fathers.

The families have continued close, as I baby-sit John's children. This didn't bother relatives until about a year ago, when John and I started going out about once a week to a dinner or movie, while my kids and his "baby-sat" each other. The children think this is just great—in fact they were the little schemers who planned our dating. We live only two blocks apart, so we are together a lot, and the children are the best of pals.

Why, Helen, would John's relatives and mine think this is disgraceful? True, we aren't contemplating marriage right now—we're just the best of friends. But we get so many pointed comments we're getting edgy. Should we separate our families, or tell our narrow-minded relatives to mind their own business?—JOHN AND LYNNIE

DEAR JOHN AND LYNNIE: I suspect your families aren't so much narrow-minded as they are MARRIAGE-minded. Keep 'em guessing; it sharpens their curiosity and gives you something to laugh together about—while you make your own private plans for the future.—H.

This column is dedicated to family living so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Write to Helen Bottel care of this newspaper.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Nosebleeds are common in youth

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—What can you tell me about nosebleeding? My 7-year-old has them quite often. Now I am about to climb the walls. I have had her to several specialists and they all seem to say the same thing: she will outgrow it, don't let her pick her nose and buy her a cool air humidifier because her nose is too dry.

One doctor cauterized her nose twice, but says she is too young to do this too often. They all told me that when her nose bleeds, to either pack it with cotton or apply pressure of something else, but they don't understand the way I feel seeing her nose starting to bleed and just when I really start to panic over all the blood she is losing, it will stop.

What really can be done, and what can I give her to build up her system from losing all the blood?

Dear Reader—The doctors you have seen have given you very good, sound advice, which is usually what is recommended for this problem.

Most bleeding from the nose occurs in the soft part. Either putting a pack in the nose or pressing the soft tip against the head part and pinching the nose tip often helps stop bleeding. Cold water also helps. In some cases if there is a superficial blood vessel near the end of the nose, it can be cauterized and this will control future bleeding.

It is usually true that many nosebleeds will stop on their own. If the bleeding continues, of course, the child or even an older person, must be taken to the doctor for treatment, or sometimes a more effective nose pack.

Although it always looks like a lot of blood, sometimes the amount of blood really isn't very great in terms of the number of tablespoons of blood lost. A little blood spreads out over a large area. Even so, if a person has repeated frequent nosebleeds, they may well lose too much iron, just the same as a woman in her child-bearing years may lose too much iron. This would manifest itself by an anemia and can be checked by a simple blood test. If this should be true, the amount of iron in the diet would need to be increased and this can usually be accomplished through a good normal diet with perhaps a little more concentration on food items that contain iron. Otherwise, the body is perfectly capable of generating enough blood to take care of most ordinary nosebleeds.

Rarely, nosebleeds are associated with important medical problems, but usually the nosebleeds in children are not. They are more of a nuisance than a danger.

Of course you are upset when it occurs. Any good mother would be, but there really isn't a great deal more to be done than has already been recommended to you.

Typecast is favored in Saturday's race

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Fletcher Jones says he carries no grudge but he wishes his mare Typecast and Leonard Lavin's Convenience would carry more weight in Saturday's $250,000 match race at Hollywood Park.

Without appropriate weights, Jones says, the richest two-horse race in American turf history really won't be much more meaningful than the money involved.

The 6-year-old Typecast is expected to rate as the public favorite over Lavin's Glen Hill Farm 4-year-old filly in the 1 1/8 mile race.

The reason: Equal weights at 120 pounds, after Convenience at 121 upset Typecast, 126, by half a length in the June 3 Vanity Handicap at Hollywood Park.

The tentative odds are Typecast 1-2 and Convenience even money.

Jones, 41-year-old president of Computer Sciences Corp. and master of Westerly Stud Farms, argues that the low weight favors the speed horse, Convenience, he also acknowledges that speed horses generally win two-horse races.

It will prove little if Convenience wins, Jones said, but if Typecast succeeds, "and I'm sure she will, it will have extended her scope to have won under conditions tailored for speed horses."

Jones, when he first suggested a match race, wanted the leading fillies and mares in the country involved at $25,000 per owner, to decide the nation's best in the filly and mare division for 1972.

Lavin, president of Alberto-Culver Co., Glencoe, Ill., countered with the winner-take-all, $100,000 each, two-horse, 120-pound impost format. Jones said he accepted in order to make the race a reality. Hollywood Turf Club added $50,000 to the purse.

Jones said he argued for level weights at 126, which he believes horses of this caliber deserve. "It should have been scale weights—126. That's where champions are found. More weight tests a horse."

"We were sold we wouldn't be able to pick up even 122, and I asked, 'Don't we even have allowance fillies here?'"

Phillies trade first baseman to Braves

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Whether the phones were ringing around the major league baseball circuit will probably never be known. But as the 3 a.m. EDT, trading deadline came and went today, only Atlanta answered Philadelphia's call.

The Phillies, last in the National League East, dealt ace reliever Joe Hoerner and a minor league first baseman to the Braves Thursday in exchange for right-handed hurlers Jim Nash and Gary Neibauer.

It was, surprisingly, the only swap on the final dealing day. On Wednesday, the Phils made a catcher-for-catcher trade with Montreal, sending Tim McCarver to the Expos for John Bateman.

On the Hoerner deal, Phils General Manager Paul Ownes explained:

"I realize that we gave up an established reliever in Hoerner, one of the best in baseball, but we had to shore up our right-hand starters, especially with six doubleheaders coming in the next six weeks."

"Nash is a proven pitcher whom we hope can fit into our starting rotation. Neibauer gives Manager Frank Lucchesi some flexibility since he can start and relieve. Our reports on him at Richmond last year were very good."

In order to make room for the extra player in the one-for-two deal, Owens announced that veteran first baseman Deron Johnson has been placed on the 15-day disabled list. Johnson has been bothered since April 28 with a damaged nerve in his left leg.

Hoerner is 0-2 in 15 appearances with a 2.05 earned run average.

Nash, 27, appeared in 11 games at Atlanta this season, starting four, and brings a 1-1 record and 5.50 ERA to the Phillies.

Neibauer, 27, relieved eight times this year with no decision. He has a 7.37 ERA.

The Phillies sent first baseman Andy Thornton from their Eugene farm team in the Pacific Coast League to the Braves' Richmond club in the International League to complete the deal.

disciplinary committee, where she apologized and explained she had merely been raising her arm in exasperation, not making a rude sign. The committee permitted her to continue play but she "had been warned about her future conduct."

In men's singles matches, Clark Graebner of New York and Alex Olmedo of Encino, Calif., advanced to the semifinals.

Graebner defeated Tomaz Koch of Brazil 6-1, 4-6, 7-5 in a second-round match, then turned back Britain's John Paish 7-5, 6-3. And Olmedo beat John de Mendoza of Britain 6-4, 8-6, then breezed by Pierre Barthes of France 6-2, 6-3.

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif.

(AP) — "You breeze through the first six holes," said young Jim Wiechers. "You struggle through ten and then to try like the devil to finish."

"It's the sand," complained Gary Player. "It's the grass," argued Orville Moody. "The poa annua on the greens comes up and bites you," said Chi Chi Rodriguez.

It was none of these things, it's just a case of being afraid of the Pebble Beach course and overly cautious in the opening round of the Open, contended Jack Nicklaus.

"The course is not as tough as the scores indicate," said the Masters titleholder and prime favorite to rack up the 12th major golf championship of his career.

"I think everybody is being very cautious. "Nobody wants to have that big hole. I didn't try to be cautious. It's too early to go for double bogeys."

Nicklaus was one of a crazy quilt collection of six tied at one-under-par 71 today going into the second round of the 72nd U.S. Open championship—and almost everybody in the field of 150 was going around with the glazed look of a man banged on the head with a sledgehammer.

It was downright spooky. The old Pebble Beach links, with the crashing waves of the Pacific whipping up on the rocky beaches and with its gun-barrel fairways and marble top tables for greens, left them reeling after the opening round Thursday.

Tied at 71—the biggest logjam in the opening round since

1896—were the favored Nicklaus; Orville Moody, the moon-faced army sergeant who won the open in 1969, now wheezing with hay fever; Puerto Rican Chi Chi Rodriguez, who has found new peace in running and meditation; Blond Tom Shaw, shooting an erratic round of six birdies and five bogeys; Tennessee's Mason Rudolph, who can't see the tee without thick-lens glasses; and Kermit Zarley, whom comedian Bob Hope once introduced as "Pro on the Moon."

The 71 equalled the largest score ever to lead the Open in the modern history of the game.

Former winner Gary Player was tied at 72 with a group that included fellow South African Bobby Cole, Don Massengale and Cesar Sanudo. Tom Weiskopf was in a large cluster at 73. The ailing defending champion Lee Trevino and former winner Bill Casper were in a flock of more than a dozen at 74.

"I feel miserable," said Trevino in a rasping voice. "I shot 74, should have shot 85 and should be in a morgue somewhere."

The colorful, wisecracking Mexican-American, stricken with bronchitis and viral pneumonia, left a hospital bed in El Paso against doctor's orders to defend his crown. He stuffed himself with pills and trudged over the layout swatched in layers of jackets and sweating from fever.

Arnold Palmer, bidding for his first major title in eight years, struggled to a 77.

NBA Board will decide fate of players today

By BERT ROSENTHAL Associated Press Sports Writer

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — Ten National Basketball Association players, and perhaps one more, could be socked with possible fines or suspensions or both today when the league's board of governors concludes its two-day meetings.

The players in question are those who participated in the unsanctioned all-star game against the rival American Basketball Association May 25 at Uniondale, N.Y.

During the game, the NBA used 10 players—Wilt Chamberlain and Gail Goodrich of Los Angeles, John Havlicek of Boston, Nate Archibald of Cincinnati, Bob Love of Chicago, Paul Silas and Connie Hawkins of Phoenix, Archie Clark of Baltimore, Oscar Robertson of Milwaukee and Bob Lanier of Detroit, voted the game's Most Valuable Player.

And an 11th player, Dave DeBusschere of New York, was in uniform but did not play because he still was recuperating from a rib injury suffered in the NBA playoffs.

Section 17 of the NBA's standard player contract forbids players from participating in exhibition games without the approval of their owners. There have been no reports of any players, except possibly Robertson, seeking permission to play.

Last year, when the two leagues met in their first post-season all-star game, the NBA also threatened to fine or suspend its participating players. But no action was ever taken.

This year, however, there appears to be a stronger feeling for some kind of punishment.

Each of the members of this year's winning NBA team received $3,000—and there is the possibility they could be fined that much by the owners. Should the owners decide to take such action, a rebellious situation might develop from the players' association, headed by Robertson.

While the owners are debating what action to take against the players, they also are expected to discuss the Julius Erving case.

Erving played last season for the Virginia Squires of the ABA. During the post-season playoffs, it was announced he had signed with the Atlanta Hawks of the NBA. Following the playoffs, he was picked by Milwaukee in the NBA draft.

On Thursday, the governors temporarily rejected offers to buy the Boston Celtics and Chicago Bulls and announced that NBA attendance for the 1971-72 season was 6,642,634—an eight per cent increase over the previous year.

Steiger said in his opinion the decision by the Arkansas racing commission was based on Emprise's alleged connection with organized crime.

Jacobs denied the SEC had ruled against Emprise, saying the ruling was against the Tucson club. But he later said Emprise had owned 86 per cent of the club at the time.

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — It would be difficult to single out any one industry as being more on the defensive than another today, as government, consumers, environmentalists and others challenge old prerogatives.

But you can say with confidence that the advertising industry at the moment is high on the list of those arguing the case most vociferously, if only because articulation is their product.

Paul C. Harper, Jr., chairman of Needham, Harper & Steers, Inc., summarized the industry's attitude toward attacks from government and consumers in a speech earlier this year to the Hollywood Radio & Television Society.

He called it "A Fireside Chat with Commissioner X," who could be a member of the Federal Trade Commission, the Federal Communications Commission, the Federal Drug Administration or staff members of these groups.

"Let's take the six most common complaints about advertising," said Harper, "and ask whether they are justified and, if so, how should take corrective action."

The first complaint, as he sees it, "Much advertising is untruthful."

His response to Commissioner X: "Very little advertising tells overt lies, and that which does should be stamped out. Unfortunately, some advertising still uses half-truths, or implies qualities or quantities that are not there."

"Difficult though it may be to establish standards, our industry, through the new National Advertising Review Board, will, I am sure, come to grips with the problem ... Failing that, we should fully expect government action."

Second complaint: "Advertising affects overt behavior adversely."

In respect to the charge that violent ads promote violent behavior in children, Harper claimed the area needs additional study. "If there is clear evidence of a cause and effect relationship, then advertising and/or programming should be modified by self-regulation, or by government action if necessary."

Third complaint: "There is too much advertising."

"Yes," said Harper, "there is. Too much for me. Too much for our industry's good. And too much for the public." In the past five years, he states, there is evidence that the 60-second commercial has declined in effectiveness by 20 per cent, "presumably due to clutter."

His conclusion: "I believe that increasing clutter is having a devastating effect on public confidence in, and acceptance of, advertising, and unless voluntary measures are taken it remains a wide open area for government intervention."

Fourth complaint: "Much of advertising is in bad taste." True, he said. It applies "all the way from irrelevant sexual allusions to the discussions of stomach disorders at mealtime."

His solution: A matter for the industry's conscience. "When the government sets standards of taste, it preempts the editorial function, and freedom of speech will ultimately be impaired."

Fifth complaint: "Advertising fosters monopoly." Said Harper: "Here the proposal is that a ceiling should be imposed on advertising dollars—or that after a certain share level, allowable advertising dollars should be decreased."

"Sheer tinkering," was his answer. Those forbidden ad dollars, he argued, would merely be spent in other forms of promotion "and the effect on economic concentration will remain roughly the same."

Sixth complaint: "Advertising is wasteful economically."

"What this theory totally ignores are the intangible values of the free market. If you believe in competition, you have to let producers compete."

"The economic cost of dampening down this process by excessive regulation would, I suspect, be far greater than the cost of brand proliferation as we now have it."

Pat Nixon to attend services

RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP) — First Lady Pat Nixon will attend Sunday's memorial service for the victims of last week's flood which claimed more than 200 lives.

President Nixon's wife will fly from Los Angeles for the service at a local high school, the White House announced Thursday as Rapid City residents continued to bury their dead and clean up their city.

The number of known dead edged upward to 207. Authorities said 192 bodies had been identified and more than 600 persons are missing.

Graveside services were scheduled at Black Hills National Cemetery today for four members of a Rapid City family who died in the flood.

Fourteen-year-old Ralph Sampson will bury his father, his mother and two brothers. He alone survived when Sampson, 37; his wife Marlene, 35; 11-year-old Bill and 8-year-old Michael were swept away last Friday as rain-swollen Rapid Creek rolled through the city of 43,000.

South Dakota Adj. Gen. Duane L. Corning said the number of National Guardsmen in Rapid City had been reduced from 2,500 to about 2,100 and more would be moved out today.

Some 2,000 families were left homeless as the flood destroyed 700 houses and 500 mobile trailer homes. Another 1,700 houses and 825 trailers were damaged.

Preliminary damage estimates topped $100 million and insurance spokesmen said only $13 million of the damage was covered by insurance.

Gov. Richard Kneip issued a plea for tourists to go ahead with visits to the Black Hills this summer. Tourism is the second leading industry in the state and the primary source of income in Rapid City.

Kneip told newsmen, "The fear is that people think the entire Black Hills was devastated by the flood and that's not true."

Sudsy kids cleaned up playground

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — It was really suds from foam used to smother industrial fires, but to children unaccustomed to snow it was a fluffy blizzard and they dived right in.

The 250 pupils at DeSoto Elementary School romped in the wet foam until they looked like dirty snowmen and their teachers hosed them down and sent them home.

"The wet clothes picked up the dirt and sand from the park grounds," said Dr. Marvin Grossman, the art professor who started the whole thing.

Grossman, from the University of South Florida, said he wanted to provide the grade schoolers with a creative experience, so he borrowed the suds from MacDill Air Force Base.

The children came back when the suds were gone to retrieve shoes, socks and other articles lost in the "snowdrift."

Various factors in JLM's victory, Ranchino states

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Pollster Jim Ranchino said Thursday that last Sunday's statewide television debate between Sen. John L. McClellan and Rep. David Pryor "has to be a major event in Arkansas political history" because of the interest that the debate generated.

McClellan went on to defeat Pryor in Tuesday's Democratic runoff, and Ranchino said that McClellan gained at least 4,124 votes as a result of the debate.

Ranchino said his study indicated that the debate was watched or heard by 322,231 registered voters.

"The total figure is amazing in itself," he said. "Seven out of 10 voters who voted Tuesday were interested enough to expose themselves to the debate."

"From this standpoint, alone — the interest generated — the debate has to be a major event in Arkansas Political history," Ranchino said.

He said his study indicated that 69 per cent of those polled had witnessed the debate, 58 per cent by television and 11 per cent by radio.

Ranchino, who is Action Research Inc., based his figures on a survey the day before the election of 483 persons who said they would vote.

The results showed that 25,779 people changed their support as a result of the debate, but 7 per cent of them — 7,218 voters — would not say to whom or from whom they switched.

But, Ranchino said, the results indicated that among the remainder 11,342 switched to McClellan from Pryor and 7,218 switched from McClellan to Pryor, leaving McClellan a net gain of 4,124.

Ranchino said a valid question might be raised concerning the wisdom of Pryor's strategy to challenge McClellan to the debate.

The switch indicated that the debate's influence was "minimal," Ranchino reported, but he added that while voters in general may have been only slightly affected by the debate, McClellan's supporters "may have been given more of a psychological lift by what they saw and heard than the Pryor supporters."

Boyling it down

NEW YORK (AP) — What is hell?

Well, between its occasional heavens, life holds more than a scattering of hells.

Each man comes in time to feel that he has been through at least 10,000 private hells of his own. But that is a delusion of grandeur.

And as we go through our lives, our hells change. Here are a few hells that some particular unlucky rascals have had to confront at different ages:

At one month old, hell is a dark room with no one else in it, and an open safety pin stuck in your side.

At two years, hell is a spanking for successfully climbing out of a high crib.

In kindergarten, it is being told by the only other red-haired girl in the class that you are even uglier than the first one said you were.

Hell at seven is being caught by your mother stealing a dime from her purse.

Hell at 18 is drawing a draft lottery number under 10.

Hell at 20 is having empty pockets every Saturday night.

At 21 it is marrying the wrong red-haired girl.

At 29 it is marrying the second wrong red-haired girl.

Hell is turning 30 if you're a woman and turning 40 if you're a man.

Hell at 41 is having to ask for a job sweeping out the office of the former high school pal who was voted most likely to succeed—and who did.

Hell at 45 is having your daughter jilted by the rich boy you had counted on becoming your ace in the hole.

At 50 hell is having your older son turn down your request to lend him $5 in walking-around money because he has just been fired from his job, too.

And at 65 hell is trying to live on a forged Social Security check you never earned in the first place.

What about 70? Well, hell then is finding half a cockroach in the plate of birthday soup served you in the penitentiary.

But the worst hell of all is to wake up in some smoky place at 80 and be handed a hot shovel by a red-eyed guy with a long forked tail who tells you they only have a coffee break there once every hundred years.

Of course, all along these hells may not be your fault at all. Sometimes we don't get to pick either our hells or our heavens. They simply descend on us by chance. You can always explain that to the chaplain—and let him punch your old Army tough luck card.

McGovern to fall short: Humphrey strategists

NEW YORK (AP) — Strategists for Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey predict that Sen. George McGovern will fall a scant 182 votes short of winning the Democratic presidential nomination on the first ballot.

They claim they have counted hundreds of publicly uncommitted delegates and predict McGovern's strength will ebb on a second ballot, and say a third ballot is likely to produce a Humphrey victory.

Humphrey men concede that McGovern will pick up 220 or more of the 278 delegates at stake in next Tuesday's New York primary, which Humphrey isn't contesting because of a decision months ago to concentrate his money in earlier primaries.

In all, they say, McGovern will have 1,327 delegates when the Democratic National Convention begins in Miami Beach next month, roughly the same as McGovern's claim that he'll have more than 1,300.

McGovern forces feel, however, that sheer momentum will bring enough uncommitted delegates aboard the South Dakota senator's bandwagon to produce at least the 1,509 he needs for first-ballot victory. But Humphrey's men are banking that McGovern will find himself "stuck in cement" just short of the prize.

"On the second ballot the slippage is going to start for him," said Humphrey's friend and money-raiser, Eugene Wyman, an attorney from Beverly Hills, Calif. "We feel by the third ballot Sen. Humphrey will have a very good chance of getting the nomination."

Wyman said in an interview that Humphrey aides, after days of intensive discussions and polling, estimate that about 900 of the 3,016 delegates will vote for the Minnesota senator on the first ballot.

The latest Associated Press poll of delegates shows 370.1 for Humphrey, 298.8 for McGovern, 517.3 uncommitted, and hundreds yet to be chosen.

Humphrey insisted Tuesday he would receive the support of virtually all of the 33 uncommitted delegates from Texas, where the state Democratic convention allotted him 21, McGovern 34, and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace 42. He plans to forage for additional delegates in states that haven't held primaries.

When Humphrey returned to Washington Thursday evening his plans for the weekend were still in doubt. Aides said he may interrupt or cancel a weekend respite at his home in Waverly, Minn., to fly to one or more of several states holding Democratic conventions this weekend. These include Connecticut, Idaho, North Dakota, Colorado and Montana.

Is McGovern comfortable with jet-set?

NEW YORK (AP) — It was hard to tell whether prairie-state Sen. George McGovern was comfortable with all those so-called jet-setters and beautiful people.

But the Democratic presidential front-runner from South Dakota would certainly have no trouble today finding a place for the $350,000 they helped raise Wednesday night for McGovern's White House campaign.

Actors Warren Beatty, Dustin Hoffman, Paul Newman, actresses Julie Christie and Shirley Maclaine, and singers Simon and Garfunkel and Peter, Paul and Mary were among the celebrities who appeared for McGovern.

The massive rally at Madison Square Garden, said by some McGovern aides to be the largest audience of his 1972 campaign, came in the final days of McGovern's campaign for New York's June 20 Democratic primary.

With the cheapest seat going for $5 and the most expensive at $100, McGovern's aides said the affair would bring in $350,000 to $400,000 for the campaign.

It generally wasn't considered the senator's best speech of the week, and the crowd was less than fervent as he appeared immediately following a series of somber ballads by Simon and Garfunkel.

Earlier, in a room off a cement-block corridor backstage at the garden, McGovern and his wife, Eleanor, chatted informally with the colorfully attired entertainers who had come to help McGovern win big next Tuesday and go on to capture the Democratic nomination in Miami Beach next month.

Russian naval power in China sea curtailed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Russians have reduced their naval concentration in the South China Sea to its lowest level since the United States mined the entrances to North Vietnamese ports in early May.

This development, reported by Pentagon sources, is taken as a possibly conclusive indication that the Russians will not attempt any naval demonstration or other military action to pressure the United States into removing the mine barriers that have cut off seaborne supplies for North Vietnam.

About 13 Soviet surface warships, submarines and supporting oilers had been concentrated loosely in two groups at sea anchorages some 600 to 700 miles east of the Vietnamese coast.

U.S. reconnaissance planes have kept them under observation and Pentagon sources report a partial breakup of the concentration.

They said a Soviet guided missile destroyer and a guided missile frigate recently sailed northeastward toward the Sea of Japan. That course suggests the two warships are bound for Vladivostok, Russia's main Far Eastern fleet base.

Another Soviet destroyer and an oiler were said to have sailed on a southwesterly course, apparently headed for the Indian Ocean by the way of the Straits of Malacca. In addition, two missile-firing submarines have moved to positions east of Taiwan and a third sub north-east of the Philippines. These submarines, too, may be headed for Vladivostok.

That leaves a Russian cruiser, guided-missile frigate and destroyer, plus an oiler and a merchant-type tanker at the South China Sea anchorage. One missile submarine also remains in that area.

In addition, the sources said a Russian tank-landing ship returning from the Indian Ocean bypassed the anchorage and sailed straight for home waters.

Some senior Nixon administration officials anticipated Soviet counteraction shortly after the U.S. Navy closed North Vietnamese ports with minifields.

Henry is off again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry Kissinger has embarked on yet another mission of personal diplomacy, but his fourth trip to China remained somewhat mysterious despite the public announcements.

President Nixon's adviser for national security affairs left Washington Thursday night on the first leg of the trip that will take him to China Monday. He planned a weekend rest stop in Hawaii.

The official statement said Kissinger would hold "concrete consultations with Chinese leaders to further the normalization of relations between the United States and the Peoples Republic of China and continue the exchange of views on issues of common interest."

The only concrete word he had for newsmen at his departure from Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington was a definite "no" when asked if he would visit Hanoi.

The White House encouraged the notion that Vietnam could occupy a prominent place in discussions, but it discounted rumors of any relationship with the travels of Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny in neighboring North Vietnam.

DDT turned out to be time bomb

NEW YORK (AP) — DDT, once hailed as one of man's greatest weapons against disease and crop damage, turned out to be a time bomb.

It killed the mosquitoes that carried malaria in many parts of the world and it killed the insects that destroyed much of man's food crops.

But it upset the balance of nature, and sometimes left things worse than they were at first. It turned out to be so persistent that it spread throughout the world, perhaps on the winds, moved quietly into the food chain, resting finally in Antarctic penguins and in man.

The fight against the use of DDT became the symbol of the new environmental movement and the decision on Wednesday by the Environmental Protection Agency banning virtually all uses of DDT in the United States is a landmark victory for the environmentalists.

"This is a jubilant day for us," said Roderick Cameron of the Environmental Defense Fund on Long Island, N.Y., a prime mover, with the National Audubon Society, in the fight.

"The important thing now," Cameron said, "is to have government and scientists educate farmers on the many safe and effective alternatives to DDT, the integrated control techniques."

The federal decision allows a few uses estimated at requiring less than 1 per cent of the 14 million pounds of DDT now sold annually in this country. DDT shipments abroad, some 26 million pounds yearly, are not affected.

Both product formulators and environmentalists immediately went to court over the EPA ruling.

The formulators asked the federal appeals court in New Orleans to set aside the EPA order, and the environmentalists went to federal court in Washington seeking to eliminate the exceptions from the order.

DDT—dichlorodiphenyl trichloroethane—is one of a family of chemicals developed after World War II. Among its first uses were attempts to control the beetle that causes Dutch elm disease and the lice that spread typhus.

But it is not easily broken down by the normal chemical activity of living things. There is no proof of any human death from DDT, but it is blamed for having wiped out great populations of birds and fish.

A U.N. study last year estimated that there may be one billion pounds of DDT in the biosphere. Much of this can be expected to find its way into the oceans.

Because DDT caused cancer in strains of mice, some scientists warned that it was a potential threat to man.

Arsenic, a semimetallic element, combines with hydrogen to form arsine, an extremely poisonous gas.

Yale President says Constitution too important to leave to courts

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Yale President Kingman Brewster Jr. says, "The Constitution is too important to leave to the courts. And politics is too important to leave to the politicians."

"It's a terrible American weakness to believe that if you've got a problem all you have to do is pass a law," he says. "It may be important to pass the law and observe it, but even more important in the long run is the active concern of the private citizen for the values involved."

In the past two months, Brewster has been following his own advice—stepping outside the customary aloofness of his office on several occasions to publicly criticize the Indochina war and some of President Nixon's domestic policies.

In an interview at Yale, Brewster said the Nixon administration has been "excessively impatient" with constitutional safeguards—but he added that Nixon is only continuing a historical trend toward more imperious and more distant government.

"There's been a lot of buck-passing in the constitutional field," he said. "Everybody expects that defending the Constitution is somebody else's job. And not enough attention to the fact that basically the Constitution, as an expression of a value system, is everybody's business."

At a time of increased distance between government and citizens, he said, it is more than a question of one issue. "I'm encouraging others, not to agree with me, but to be concerned about the problem" and to speak up or join groups or take part in some other way, he said.

Brewster has spoken out before on public issues but rarely with the regularity of recent weeks. This activism—like that of several other college presidents—surfaced two months ago with the stepped-up bombing of North Vietnam and the mining of North Vietnamese ports. He said at the time that he disapproved of disruptive demonstrations and was seeking another form of protest for his students.

Last month, he told graduating seniors at Notre Dame University that "deep divisions, disapprovals, and distrust ... have been sown throughout the land by the 'if you are not for me, you are against me' rhetoric of the President, the vice president and other administration spokesmen."

In a baccalaureate address to Yale seniors last Sunday and in the interview, Brewster praised students working for Sen. George McGovern, such groups as the American Civil Liberties Union and peace groups which he said had been pilloried a decade ago when they advocated a nuclear arms agreement. New forms of citizen participation are needed, too, he said, but he offered no new suggestions.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The donkey and elephant became popular symbols of the Democratic and Republican parties during the 1870s thanks to magazine cartoons. The World Almanac notes, however, that the parties have used both a crowing rooster and a five-pointed star; Republicans have used both the elephant and soaring eagle.
